BLAIRMORE ENFETE TOMORROW

Blairmore and Coleman will be enfete tomorrow, the occasion being the reception of Lord and Lady Byng. The Governor-General and party will reach Blairmore by special train at 11 a.m.

The local programme will be as follows:

At the C.P.R. Station at 11 a.m.—

Presentation of Address to the Governor-General by

His Worship Mayor McLeod, and reply by Lord Byng.

Presentation of Civic and School Officials.

Inspection of War Veterans.

Inspection of Cadets.

All who wish to be presented to Lord and Lady Byng are requested to be at the depot promptly on time.

Leaving Blairmore at 1:30, the vice-regal party will stop at Coleman, where a programme of reception will be carried out.

They will then proceed to Fernie, where similar functions will take place.

The party will then take in the Banff-Windermere trip by auto, guests of the Southern Alberta and South-eastern British Columbia Tourist Association and the Automobile Club of The Pass. Lady Byng will continue from Calgary to Jasper Park, where she will holiday for a few days with other members of the party, the Governor-General continuing on to Ottawa.

It is the wish of Mayor McLeod that all business places close from 10 to 12 a.m. on this occasion.

Following is the address to be presented by the Mayor:

To His Excellency, The Right Honorable Sir Edward Carson, Baron of Vimy, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., R.V.O., Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

Your Excellency:

The People of Blairmore, I assure you, appreciate beyond my words this visit of Your Excellency. Lady Byng has brought with her a spirit of friendliness and cordiality which has感染ed all the more and it has been extended. We know, however, that your time is limited by the many demands upon it, and that on account we must necessarily be deprived of the pleasure of showing you some of the many places of beauty and interest in the Crows' Nest Pass.

We of course welcome you chiefly as the representative of the Queen in Canada, but beyond this we greet you as one who has brought to your high office that measure of efficiency, resourcefulness and tact that has so distinguished your service to the Empire in other fields.

There are other ties, however, which bind Your Excellency to us still more intimately. More than six hundred Blairmore men served in the Army of Canada and served in the Great War, and after fully sharing in the brotherhood of heroism, the trials and tribulations shared of Belgium and France. Happily many have returned, and those of them who had the good fortune of serving under Your Excellency's command have a valuable knowledge to pass on to your Governor-General of Canada and as Commanding Officer of the Canadian Corps in France.

If it were possible I am sure that our veterans without fail would be anxious to express to Your Excellency individually their cordial remembrance and esteem.

Your Excellency is now in the centre of one of the most resourceful areas of Canada. Under present conditions the daily output of the mines in this vicinity is upwards of six thousand tons of high grade coal, and our people are measured not by capacity of our markets. Without referring to our other industries we mention this only to remind Your Excellency that you are now in the heart of the potential industrial centres of Canada.

Your Excellency will please convey to His Majesty the assurance of the high attachment of our citizens to his throne. Let us, therefore, accept for yourself and for Lady Byng our warmest greetings.

The following is the letter received from Their Excellencies' visit:

Government House, Ottawa, June 21st, 1924.

I am desired by His Excellency the Governor-General to say that he proposes to visit Blairmore on Friday, August 8th, arriving at 12 noon. He will be accompanied by Her Excellency the Lady Byng of Vimy, Miss G. Byng, Major P. K. Hodgeson (private secretary), Captain The Hon. F. W. Erskine, and Captain W. T. Currie, A.D.C.s, and will arrive at the C.P.R. station.

I should be greatly obliged if you would let me know as soon as possible the time when you will be here at the same time forwarding a proposed programme for Their Excellencies' visit, and a copy of any address, should it be proposed to present one. I am particularly anxious that no expense should be entailed by the Municipality on account of his visit, and he hopes that arrangements will be made so as to enable him to do as many of your activities as possible.

As His Excellency leaves Ottawa for the West on July 20th, I should be most grateful for your early reply.

I am yours faithfully,

F. W. Erskine, Captain, for Private Secretary.

His Worship
The Mayor of Blairmore,
Alberta.

The Rev. and Mrs. Barclay, who are visiting in Blairmore over Sunday, are honorary Missionaries of the Anglican Church, they have been conducting missions in the remote parts of Alberta by the aid of a mission motor van.

Rev. W. T. Young will be home for all services at the Union Church on Sunday next.

BLAIRMORE JUNIORS IN CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY-OFF

Definite word was received from E. D. Battum, Hon. Secy. A.A.B.A., that Blairmore Junior Baseball Club was eligible for the Provincial Championship play-off. The top race comprises five teams: Blairmore, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Drumheller and Big Valley.

As far as is now known the locals play at Medicine Hat on Wednesday and Saturday. This is the first junior team from Blairmore to enter into the play-off for the championship of any sport, so give them a boost. They practice every evening; come over to the grounds and look them over, just to convince yourself that there is fine material in this town.

There are many things the Manager of the Union Bank can help you with.
His daily contact with business problems enables him to give you competent advice. He will gladly do it.

Seymour spoke rapidly to the mister, asking him to go to the trail of the two men who had been shot. In some way, the Eskimo grasped the gist of this request.

"Aye, I'll speak with them English," was the unswerving statement.

"Then tell me, where you get this gun?" Seymour demand. "Where is the red coat that owns him?" Unwillingly, the mister had given up the broken speech of the few natives who other than their own tongue.

Aye grimaced wildly, showing ivory fangs of meat still clinging between which shards of meat still clung.

"I'm hungry all same," he said. "Him out there?" He gestured to the front door, which one of the men had closed when he entered.

Something about this reply seemed to tickle the native for he laughed until the long folds of his parker rippled. With a smile, Sir Morrow waited to learn the reason of the mirth, but dashed out the door.

In the furrowed trail they found La Morra, who had been greatly disturbed for they recognized they were at trail's end. The constable was in his sleeping bag which was lashed to the kennel. He had "stay by sled" for an excellent reason. His leg was broken.

"Well, Charlie, I see you got your leg," he said. "I'm glad you're being cheerful, as he seemed to sing which the dogs, under Morrow's guidance, were pulling up the bark into the yard.

"No, Sir," one man got out. "The response was in a voice weak from suffering.

The men stepped in, the house, shivering and all. Before attempting the painful ordeal of extracting the broken, unsent limb from the fur lined coat, they fed him the bread of one of the men. It had been left from the Mi-crucified-feast. At Seymour's request, the two women went into the kitchen to prepare hot water for the important operation and a strong bath of which the constable would be in need afterward.

As every missionary in the North is something of a doctor as well as a lay physician, Luke Morra hurried to Mission House for the tools. The while, Aye sat on the heart, contentedly munching a chunk of bannock which no one had the heart to take away.

"When the ronu was cleared, Sergeant Seymour leaned over the constable and asked him a question. "Aye under arrest?"

"I—I hadn't the heart, after all he's done for me," said the injured mountaineer. Seymour got up and went enough. Didn't seem the least afraid about coming back to the post. Go easy on him, sergeant. I'd been here with it had been here for a week."

The arrest had to be made quickly, before Morra chanced back into the room if this kind-hearted plot was to be successful. Seymour got out the Eastman attention, explained him to be understood English, and went through the normal lines of arrest and warning, with the addition that it was "for the safety of Oliver O'Malley."

"Sure," said the native, who had learned some of his English from American visitors to Hare Island. "They're Wild West. What's that?"

Seymour did not understand the significance of this last question, but hadn't the time to inquire into it. Leastwise, he didn't have time to turn him in to make friends with Oleape or not, an Eskimo etiquette might decree.

As he was locking the door of the cell room, Morra came from the kitchen with improvised splints and a roll of bandages. She told him quietly of her work with a Red Cross unit and asked permission to help with the operation.

"If I can handle the other or anything."

"Thank you, Morra," the sergeant interrupted. "If Dr. Morrow can use you, I'll call."

The parsonic surgeon turned with mallet and instrument case. The sleeping bag was slit down its center, as the least painful way of removing the patient and gently they carried him into the operating table in Seymour's quarters.

Morrow proposed an anesthetic. Even in the hands of a skilled surgeon, he deemed the procedure would be most painful; he was just a shrewd, well-intentioned amateur.

"Damme if I get out of my head for just a jab of pain," the stout constable exclaimed.

"A whiff of ether will make it easier," suggested the mister. "And I'll—what's his name?—O'Malley is ready to administer it. She served with us in France."

La Marra's black eyes gleamed a second, then dimmed again. Then he shook his head decisively.

"Aye, and that wouldn't be so bad," he said. "But I've smelled ether a few times before now. I—I know. I'll take no chances of ragging her with babbles about Oliver's murder." He turned to the mister. "Let's go, parson, and do your darndest to make me a straight story."

The operation took some time, the priest helping to restrain the patient. Even the mister, who had been a general supervisor, did help and perhaps her presence was at potient as anesthetic. At any rate, not a cry escaped the hips when the native did not convince him that the Huskie alone was responsible for the situation.

"Aye trap four—bliss and strife," the ready answer. "Aye fine hunter—ver best."

"When did you take them from your traps?"

"Not soon," answered Seymour with a shrug; then suddenly turned the inquiry. "Where did you get those fox traps?"

"The Huskie alone was responsible for the situation. I—I know. I'll take no chances of ragging her with babbles about Oliver's murder." He turned to the mister. "Let's go, parson, and do your darndest to make me a straight story."

"The Huskie alone was responsible for the situation. I—I know. I'll take no chances of ragging her with babbles about Oliver's murder." He turned to the mister. "Let's go, parson, and do your darndest to make me a straight story."

The operation took some time, the priest helping to restrain the patient. Even the mister, who had been a general supervisor, did help and perhaps her presence was at potient as anesthetic. At any rate, not a cry escaped the hips when the native did not convince him that the Huskie alone was responsible for the situation.

Gun-Running Plot

Aeroplane Machine Guns Smuggled From England to Russia

Inquiries are being made by the police into a gun-running expedition from England to Russia, which an unknown group, including a London fishing smacks' co-operative.

Scotland Yard has discovered that 56 machine guns were shipped abroad under the nose of the authorities, and also that half the thing remained a secret gun-running on a much larger scale would have followed, until 1,000 guns had been got out of the country.

It is stated that the guns were aeroplane machine guns, a fact considered significant in view of the large deliveries of aeroplanes to Russia from Germany.

It is known that the guns, which were bought by a London firearms dealer, were taken by him from the factory to a wharf not far from London Bridge. Here they were called for one night by a London fishing smacks' co-operative to be taken on board.

The smacks then got to a point about 20 miles off the Gabroon Lightship, east of Hartlepool, where it met a mysterious foreign vessel and transferred the guns to her. This vessel sailed for Petrograd.

All the ports of England have been watched and many ships searched.

Humanity's Best Protector

No Community is Safe If Church is Banished

The Church is human! Yes, but the very people who disclaim most loudly against her defects take greatest care to plant their home beneath her shadow. The Church is the greatest protector of human life and liberty that the world ever knew. The Church is the greatest friend of humanity that exists in the world today; and even her bitterest enemies would probably not remain long in a community from which that Church had been banished. Yet men will today find great enjoyment in telling of the Church's faults; and tomorrow in selling their property who will take pains to say that it is near a church. Strange, isn't it?—Christian Guardian.

Baby Show At Wembley

At London Museum

Fishing Device With Tassel Projects From Back

The Natural History Museum in South Kensington, London, has just received a queer fish skin species new to science.

It is one of the deep sea angler, unrepresented in the museum, and apparently related to the older variety of fish sometimes found in fossils in certain rocks. It was captured by Hugh Streat, at Hull, at a depth of 100 fathoms at Thetford Roads.

It is about a yard long, it has black skin, and pure, white conical spines all over it; its tail has eight rays connected by a thin web; from the middle of its back projects a long fishing rod device, with a long tassel.

This is used to attract the creature's prey into its mouth. Very little is known about these fish, and it is hoped that further light may be thrown by some of the specimens brought back by the expedition which recently went to the South Pacific.

Milsons' Forest Products.

For some time Canada has produced a number of business enterprises to $500,000,000 a year. These include a number of all kinds, pulp and paper. We should conserve our forests by preventing fire loss and wasteful cutting, and also plant more trees to take the place of those cut down.

Establishing Radio Stations

Vancouver and Montreal Are Links In Empire Wireless Programme

Radio stations are to be established near Montreal and Vancouver as links in the Empire wireless programme as the result of arrangements just completed between the British Government, the Department of Marine and Fisheries of Canada and the affiliated Marconi Companies.

The stations, which are to be short-wave, or "beam" stations, will be owned and operated by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada, and will have a guaranteed operating speed of 100 words a minute and will cost approximately $300,000 each. Licenses have been issued by the department permitting the Marconi Company to proceed promptly with the work.

The English station in the new service will be built by the English Marconi Company, and will be operated by the British post office, the latter paying a percentage of the gross receipts to the Marconi Company in respect to patent royalties. The arrangements concluded between the Canadian post office and the English Marconi Company settles a deadlock regarding the Canadian stations. The Marconi Company has accepted the principle put forward by the British Government, that the English superstation now in the course of construction at Rugby must be state-owned and operated. The short-wave service now arranged for will be adequate to provide the best service under all conditions.

The Order Of Procedure

Mentality of Eastern People Who Are Hostile Towards the H. B. Royal Road

A lot of worthy people down east appear to think that since they are hostile to the opening of the Hudson Bay route the Government must convince them of the practicability of the route—which in view of their closed minds would be a rather large order before doing anything further in the matter.

In view of the fact that Parliament has been committed to opening up the route for sixteen years and has spent twenty million dollars upon the project, the presumptions, however, are all in favor of its practicability. It is up to the opponents of the scheme by such means as they can devise to prove if this is possible that the country is not ready for the opening of the Hudson Bay route towards this unbroken road.

There is no evidence submitted in this connection that a more urgent demand for navigation and assistance does not prevail anywhere.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Good Investment

Big Business Houses Prove Advertising Is Most Important

Despite the many proofs of its value brought to notice every day, advertising continues to be a luxury to many business men, others who believe it is necessary will, like rent, or lights or heat in winter, or some other "heat" expense.

Big business houses, spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in advertising yearly, have proved by test that advertising is the most important highest-paying investment they can make.

A certain percentage of a year's gross business is appropriated for advertising, which is carried on continually. The returns are greater than from any other investment that can be made.

The first trial, like patent medicine, may not do the trick, but persistent advertising will get results.—Placerville, Calif., Republician.

What "Gold-Filled" Means

"Gold-filled" on a piece of jewelry doesn't mean that the article is filled with gold or that it is solid gold. What it does mean is that the article is plated extra heavily with gold.

Therefore, "sterling" on silver always means that the metal is at least 925/1000 pure silver. The other things in storing silver are used to harden and toughen up the more precious metal.

THE FIRST MIRACLE OF JESUS

Gods Is Left. Whatevver he saith unto you, do it. John 3:13

Lesson: John 3:1-11

Devotional Reading: Psalm 103:1-6

The Text Explained and Illuminated

The third day after, which was the day after tomorrow, reckoning from Nathaniel's talk with Jesus, the little company of Master and disciples came to the house of Simon Peter's home town, Capernaum. There Jesus was well known, wedding festivities were being held, and when His Son Jesus arrived, the people invited Jesus to sit down. Jesus said no, He did not share the simple joys of life; He "came eating and drinking." The people asked, "What is this?"—and many a question was asked on many a joyous occasion.

The Conversation Between Mary and Jesus, verses 3, 4. Marriage feasts are held several days, and the guests come to two meals. The end of the time the wine began to give out, owing, it was believed, to the fact that Jesus had been invited to the unexpected arrival of five or more guests. Mary interceded with Peter to let Jesus have a servant to help, and He sent a lad to bring help.

The lad came, and Jesus said, "Give him a portion of the five loaves and two fish."

Jesus' remark suggests two thoughts:

(a) Jesus is the best refectory in every kind of need.

(b) Mary had been in the habit of carrying the trouble to Jesus.

She carried this out, and we cannot do better than carry our difficulties to Jesus.

Jesus' answer to her request was, "Pray for us, and we will pray for you."

He did not always pray for help in their own behalf. "They have not asked me to do this," said Jesus.

The lad took the five loaves and two fish, and Jesus blessed them.

Then He divided the bread among the five thousand people.

He then told the lad to give the fish to the people.

THE BANK INSPECTOR

The man who is to inspect bank for the Dominion government will get a salary of $35,000 a year. That is probably why he was appointed. The government does not seem able to resist the temptation to make any change that involves the creation of a new office at a large salary. All that Canada can possibly get out of this agitation is the knowledge that a new $25,000 job has been created which carries with it the assurance that if a bank fails the people of Canada must stand behind the depositors. We are not sanguine that government inspection will prevent failures but we can be positive that the depositors will not lose if the bank fails. The banks get the business. The government assumes the responsibility. The banks should themselves have guaranteed the deposits. That guarantee would have brought about some system of inspection by the Bankers' Association. — High River Times.

FINED FOR PAYING GOOD PRICE

Extraordinary scenes were witnessed in police court at Alix on Friday, when a number of farmers of the district stepped forward and offered to pay a fine of $140 and costs imposed on N. A. Larson, of the Meadow Brook Creamery, when convicted on a charge of giving farmers too good a price for their cream. Mr. Larsen deflected the proffers of assistance and paid the fine himself. According to the police, the charge against Larson was laid by the P. Burns Company, who alleged that Larson was paying the farmers more for their cream than allowed by law. After Larson had been convicted and fined, farmers of the district held an indignation meeting in the town hall, and decided to take the matter up with the provincial government. They charged that the farmers' government was doing everything to ruin them instead of helping them, and it was time something had to be done. Larson, in court, stated that at present prices, creamers made a profit of 11 cents a pound, but he was satisfied with 5 cents a pound profit, and it was while selling cream on this basis that he was arrested. — High River Times.

LOCAL BUSINESS

CHANGING HANDS

An important business deal is being consummated this week, in which the dry goods and gents' and ladies' furnishing business known as the Blaimeore Trading Company transfers from Mr. F. S. Kafoury to a Mr. Green, of Manyberries, who takes possession shortly.

The Blaimeore Trading Company's stand is one of the best in the district and has always commanded a goodly share of trade.

The Plaza Imperial Orchestra recently returned from a round trip of the Orient and Pacific Coast cities, will hold a concert and dance in the Opera House on Tuesday night next.

This orchestra comprises all the latest instruments known to jazz and also play select music with great ability. They played with success in Calgary all last summer and should be well worth hearing. For dance music we understand they are unsurpassed.

MOUNT ROBSON IS B.C. LAND.

The topography of the Mount Robson district is changing with the years, according to Alpinists who were at the last Alpine Club camp, and who have returned for the present gathering.

In many of the glaciers there has been a noticeable recession and change of contour, and a change also in the watershed from the main Robson glacier has decided the question of where the boundary line lies between Alberta and British Columbia.

For a considerable time it was thought that Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, was in Alberta, and difficulty was experienced in finding the exact boundary, from the fact that water from the main glacier flowed both into Berg Lake, on the British Columbia side, and into Lake Adolphus, a beautiful sheet of water about a mile distant, and on the Alberta side.

In recent years, however, the flow of water from the Robson Cirque into Lake Adolphus has ceased, and the boundary, being decided on the question of water shed, has brought Mount Robson and Mount Rearguard definitely within the British Columbia border.

THE CHARGE OF

THE BOBBED BRIGADE

Bobbed hair to the right of us

Bobbed hair to the left of us.

Bobbed hair behind us,

Tresses assunder,

Some with a heavy crop,

Some with a light crop,

Into the barber shop,

Walked the six hundred.

Women of high degree

Women past fifty-three,

Determined that she shall be

One of the numbered.

Girls not yet in their teens,

Girls now just sweet sixteen,

Girls who that age have seen,

Joined the bobbed hundred.

Women of every class,

Mother, daughter, little lass,

Sweetheart, sister, join the mass

Of the bobbed hair throng.

Clerk, stenographer, hello girl,

Waiter, maid and office girl,

All have got caught in the swirl,

No more to wear hair longer.

Some with bangs and some without,

Some are shingled round about,

Some in curlis and some in doubt,

In case they may have blundered.

Some of them look real swell,

Some of them look like—well

It's sometimes not just well to tell

How look the bobbed hair hundred.

Evidently the war is over. We saw a man eat a "red-hot" the other day without asking whether it was made from a German police dog.

SEND WIFE-DESERTERS HOME

It will surprise most Canadians to learn that theirs is the only dominion in the British Empire to which an English wife-deserter can flee with the assurance that he cannot be reached by the law.

According to a London magistrate, however, if an Englishman comes to Canada there is no machinery here by which an order of an English court compelling him to contribute to the maintenance of the wife he has left behind can be made operative.

He may do well in Canada, become a wealthy man, but, if he chooses to allow his wife to starve in England nothing can be done to force him to carry out his first obligation.

Canada does not want that type of man at all, still less does it care to become an asylum for wife-deserters. The law should be so changed that such despicable individuals may either be put within reach of the English courts or be brought to book in this country—Exchange.

One On One

A country doctor in the North of Ireland was driving down a narrow lane, on his way to visit a patient, when he noticed an old woman in the middle of the road picking up some pieces of turf which had evidently dropped from a passing car.

Pulling his horse up to prevent running over her, he said, rather sharply, "Women and donkeys are always in the way."

"Sure, sir," said the woman, stepping to one side. "I'm glad you've the manners to put yourself last."

Do Something For Canada

Addressing a gathering at Vancouver last month, His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor-General, said:

"I have another year and a half to stay in Canada, and when I go somehow I would like to feel that Canada has trod the path of prosperity and toward idealism. I would like to feel that when I go the people will say: 'There goes a good Canadian.' I can't tell of the pride it would give me to think I had done something for this country, for which my pride is unspeakable."

"These words came at the conclusion of an address filled with optimism for the future of Canada, but urging as an essential, national unity and the putting of ideals into the minds of the rising generation. 'I know that Canada is going ahead,' declared His Excellency, 'and that the spirit that emanated from our small place in the world has been formed and spread to battalions and divisions overseas, still extant among the bravest people. But we must see to it, for without unity Canada cannot become a real nation.'

His Baron Byng, an Englishman, whose duties necessitated his residence in Canada for only five years, feels this way about the Dominion, and is imbued with this desire to do something for Canada, how much more intensely should native-born Canadians, and those who have chosen Canada by adoption as their permanent homeland—feel towards this Dominion, and how anxious they should be to "do something for Canada."

And, after all, that is just what Canada needs, that her sons and daughters should strive to do something for her. For a time a tendency towards paternalism swept over this country when the doctrine seemed to find ready acceptance that it was the business of the Government or State to look after the people rather than that the people should look after and promote the welfare of the State and thereby promote the well-being and advancement of all.

No doubt the war was largely responsible for this tendency, because while that grim conflict was being waged, it became necessary for the State to call upon the entire citizenship to fight for its and their preservation, and while in the army every man's slightest want was provided for by Government and its dependents cared for by Government in his absence. War made these things necessary, but a continuance of war policies would mean national bankruptcy, and State paternalism carried to an extreme inevitably meant national disintegration.

Patriotism is popular both in the efficacy of State aid for this, that and the other thing is on the way. People have learned that the Government is after all "theirs," and that it is impossible to live up to the motto, "do it," but "Do something yourself, for yourself, and for the country."

It is selfish doing for oneself only. England would not be the great nation it is if Englishmen had only had a vision of England, and not of the great British Empire in the making. The United States would never have grown into the powerful nation it is today if the people had insisted on States' rights first, last and all the time regardless of the national well-being. As Baron Byng has emphasized, there must be unity in Canada, and union in national endeavor and enterprise, before a real nation can arise.

And national idealism requires to be inculcated in the youth of today and carefully nurtured and developed. Men and women are hard at work earnestly striving for some object in life; but what greater objective can any Canadian have than the rendering of service to Canada itself. Development of our natural resources may bring rewards to the individual, but it is bound to bring something greater to Canada if it carried out in a spirit of national service rather than of national exploitation.

When the time comes for a Canadian to go, not going in the sense of Baron Byng's departure for his home in England, but going because life's work is ended, what greater satisfaction can be felt than in a knowledge that he has done something, achieved something for his own country. While not agreeing with the extreme to which the theory was carried by Germany, it must be admitted that there is much to be said for the doctrine, or policy, in it, which goes forth that the individual exists for the State and not the State for the individual. The truth, of course, lies between these two extremes. In Canada there is apparently little desire for the German policy of a State superimposed on the individual finding acceptance; the danger to be avoided is that of regarding the individual as all-important—and the State as of little account except as it can be used to promote the selfish aims and desires of the individual.

Like the Boy Scouts with their slogan, "Do a Good Turn Every Day," Canadians should in unity and with a true national idealism strive in season and out of season to do something for Canada.

King Entertains Lawyers

Visitors From Canada, and U.S. Took Tea With Royalty

Visting lawyers from Canada and the United States walked, talked and took tea with King George, Queen Mary, and the Prince of Wales—Royalty's backyard, so to speak, when the pleasant grounds to the rear of Buckingham Palace were thrown open to 3,000 invited guests, most of whom were visiting lawyers. Behind the severe forbidding front of the big building which faces the Mall, they found little of the ceremony usually associated with royalty.

Production of Pig Iron

Vancouver Expects Big Grain Movement

One Hundred Million Bushels in Ainslie, 1924

One hundred million bushels of grain through Vancouver for the 1924-25 season is the prediction of grain men here. With the 1923-24 crop still moving, shipping and grain interests are already negotiating for space for next season, when the elevator capacity here will be at least 7,100,000 bushels, as compared with 2,000,000 now. By the end of the season 60,000,000 bushels will have been moved, it is estimated, based on the total movement of 60,000,000 bushels to July 22, 1923.

Norwegian Greatest Whale Fisheries
Sixty per cent of the world's whale fishing is done by Norwegian and the Christiania correspondent of the London Morning Post estimates the yield this season at 70,000,000 crowns. Nearly the entire output was sold to the United States.

Whale Oil For England

The Power Of Lightning

Pint of Gasoline Contains Same Energy As Average Lightning Bolt Says Scientist

Scientists have a way of talking about things that gives the impression of casual indifference to all that scares and concerns the thinking man. A great big streak of lightning that hurtles through space, opens the sky up for a strip that looks like a yard and half wide, and seems to be satisfied only by taking the steeple off a church or knocking the chimney from the back kitchen—the scientist looks on quietly takes a pencil and starts to figure on the back of an envelope.

He announces that it is forceful and impressive because of its high voltage. In a few more minutes he has it figured out that the cost was not worth 75 cents as far as electrical energy is concerned.

The late Dr. Steinmetz, before his death, claimed that the average bolt of lightning was no stronger in intensity than the stored up in a pint of gasoline. At the rate paid for electric lights in comparison with which he was familiar the average streak of lightning was not worth $1; on the basis of pieces paid for power, not over 20 cents.

The same authority had it figured out that a person with a very small gas engine could make as much electricity for 90 cents worth of gas as was developed in an average thunderstorm.

It's very interesting to have it all worked out on that basis; it might even make a timid person resolve not to be afraid of any 60-cent electrical storm, yet there would be the mental reservation that it would be much easier to make one's own supply of electricity rather than have it shot at him from the heaven.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

PEOPLE "ALL NERVES"

What to Do If You Find Yourself in This Condition

The sort of thing that specialists speak of as nerves is a condition caused by over-work, household cares or worries. The sufferer feels themselves tired, moody, irritable and unable to keep them mind on anything. Annoyed noise startles and sets the heart palpitating violently. They are full of grueling fears, and do not sleep well at night. The heart beats fast, and the legs feel as if they should give way, following a walk or any exertion. The whole condition of people may be described as pitiful.

Doctors the nerves with poisonous remedies is a terrible mistake. Rest, redress and tonic is a good supply before night. For insomnia, the strong nerves, improved spirits and new strength which comes after a course of these pills will do the trick.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50¢ a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brooklyn, Ont.

New Instrument Locates Metal

Makes Sound When Passing Over Ground Containing Metallic Ores

Old legends tell of men who had the power-to-downdown into the earth and see where gold-and silver lay hidden. We cannot do this yet, but something almost as wonderful is now possible: we can listen and hear the veins of precious metal.

Two Swedish engineers, Mr. Hans Lundberg and Mrs. Harry Narath, have invented an electrical instrument which will locate metallic ores under the ground and indicate their presence by making a sound that can be heard.

The prospector carries the instrument over the ground he is prospecting and, with a telephone receiver tied on his head, listens. When he passes over a vein a sound is heard, and the prospector knows that what lies in some place beneath his feet.

It Testifies for Itself—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil needs no testimonial of its strength other than itself. Who can afford to pay for oil, colds, cuts or contusions, for burns, for sprains, burns, for pains in the limbs or body, well know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

Irish Linens Are Strongest

Linens valued at $17,143, and manufactured in the Irish Free State, were bought for the United States liner Leviathan. The contractors found that the type of linens tough enough to withstand the steam laundrys of New York and Southampton were not available in America.

London Zoo Receives Remarkable Animal

Rare "Liger" Is Gift Of An Indian Prince

Prince Ranjitsinhji has just presented to the Zoo a male lion-tiger. As a lion was the father this remarkable animal is also known as a "liger" and it is a freak which very rarely ought to be of great interest to visitors owing to the natural distribution of the lion and tiger hybrids. It is a lion outside meagerly, and it is extremely difficult to get lion and tigress—or a tiger and lioness—to agree together in captivity. The Zoo has never tried the experiment of putting lions and tigers in the same cage, and there is so much natural sympathy and antipathy between individuals that it is often difficult to find suitable mates for the large cats even among their own kind.

This particular liger has come from Prince Ranjitsinhji's estate in India, where it was bred and reared, and where lions are preserved and often kept with tigers. These hybrids vary a great deal in appearance and temperament, some favoring one parent, some the other. The Zoo's liger is a very fine specimen, being beautifully proportioned, and as tall, if not taller, than Rishi, the largest of the tigers at the Zoo.

At a glance he looks most like a tiger, for he inherits his walk and the shape of his body from his mother. But the color of his head and body is the sandy-brown of the lion, with tiger-stripes showing in parts. His head is an odd mixture of both parents. It is shaped like that of a tiger, but the eyes are the amber eyes of the lion. On the head and round the neck are a few hairs that would like to be a mane, and very distinct on this sandy head are the black and white striped ears that so characterize the tiger. The tail is shaped like a tiger's, with the well-known lion's tuft on the end. He is a young animal, and may not yet be fully grown, and like all cats born in captivity or semi-captivity, he is a little spited. He has been given an outdoor cage at the Zoo, so that he will have every chance of keeping well and healthy. Unfortunately, he refuses to show himself at present, and sits in his box gazing at the crowds through the small hole.

Print Bible History In Indian Language

Three Thousand Copies Ready For Distribution Among Sioux Tribe

After the printing of the first volume of the printing of Biblical history in the language of Indians from the Tetons, Sioux tribe of the Pine Ridge Reservation of South Dakota, has made its appearance in Cincinnati. The work which is the result of much painstaking and self-denying work on the part of its author, Rev. Eugene Buelch, S.J., who is stationed at St. Francis, South Dakota, came from the presses here with the distinction of being the first time a history of the Bible has been translated into an Indian language.

"Worap Wakana" is the name of the book and has turned into the English language means, "Bible History." Latin characters constitute the words, forming phonetically the language of the Tetons Sioux. About 3,000 copies of the work have been printed and are ready for distribution among the Sioux.

Saskatchewan Exports Eggs

Eighty-Five Carloads Are Shipped During Two-Month Period

A large export business in poultry products has been built up by Saskatchewan farmers, according to the careful supervision of the Provincial Marketing Department. From April 10 to May 31 of this year, 85 carloads of eggs were shipped from different points in Southern Saskatchewan, in addition approximately thirty-eight to forty carloads of eggs were shipped from the northern half of the province during the same period.

German Aviator Breaks Gliding Records

Among European aviators gliding still continues to be a favorite sport. Performances such as astonished the world three years ago are now commonplace. A German recently surpassed all previous feats in gliding by remaining in the air for eight hours and forty-five minutes. He landed, moreover, at a spot higher than his starting point.

Syrian Citrus Fruits

The Syrians are fond of all kinds of citrus fruits, and their climate is particularly suitable for the cultivation of oranges and lemons, yet very little actual cultivation is done. ### A Trans-Canada Highway

Canadian Highway From Sea to Sea A Thing of the Future

It is now possible to cross Canada by motor car, with the exception of two detours into United States territory. There is no suitable road from Sainte Marie to Winnipeg, and another gap must be filled in British Columbia before the tourist can keep to the Canadian side of the boundary all the way. The Canadian highway from sea to sea is a thing of the future, but perhaps not as many as so distant future as many suppose. Traveller by road is undoubtedly a generous distributor of money, and if a few thousand enthusiasts from the United States could be induced to run across Canada every year their spendings would make up for the capital costs of well-made and well-kept roads.

Besides which, of course, the country would secure the development of some presently inaccessible districts which would thus be opened up to settlement and use.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Makes Tour On Nothing

Sixteen-Year-Old Boy Crosses Atlantic Without Paying Fare

How to live on nothing a year would be apt title for the story told to the harbor police by 16-year-old Arthur Sullivan, giving his address as Liverpool, England, who is being held at the Canadian Immigration Office, Montreal.

On his own admission, Arthur obtained free passage across the Atlantic in a boat owned by the S.S. "Ile de France" by mingling with passengers in the steerage and sleeping by day and sleeping in the hold by night. After arriving in Montreal, he visited Toronto and smaller cities and parts of the United States, traveling on freight cars and riding the bumpers. He returned to Montreal and was attempting to get aboard a liner bound for England when his plans were interrupted by the Harbor Police, who discovered him and took him into custody.

The Harbor Police conceded that Arthur's story is picturesque. They believe that for a boy of his age in a strange country the manner in which he travelled denotes ingenuity out of the ordinary.

Test Trip Is Success

Do Luke Plane Carries Eight Passengers From Detroit to Chicago.

An airplane carrying eight persons and equipped with reclining chairs for two detainees, with a table arranged between the chairs, arrived at Chicago from Detroit on a test voyage after a cruise of three hours and five minutes.

The plane, owned by M. B. Stout, left Detroit at 7:13 a.m. and landed at Maywood at 10:18 o'clock. It returned to Detroit later in the day.

The six passengers aboard included two women, while the crew consisted of a pilot and mechanic. The women were Mrs. Stout and Miss Jane Summells, of Canada.

The plane is all metal, with 2,380 pounds useful capacity for oils, gas and other equipment, and measures fifty-eight feet from tip to tip. It has windows on all sides. Doors that can be sealed are between the pilot's seat and the passenger compartment, which is so arranged as to be almost soundproof.

The airplane party ate breakfast in Detroit, had luncheon in Chicago and dined in a hotel in Maywood.

Canadian Furs

That Canadian furs are finding a distinct place in the leading markets of the world is due to the development of the Italian market, according to a report of the Canadian Assistant Trade Commissioner for that country. At the present time there is a large import duty on dressing furs in the rest of Canada, a proportion of which goes to Canadian origin.

B.C. OPPOSED TO RESTORATION OF CROWS NEST RATE

Vancouver—The fight for abrogation of the Crow's Nest Pass freight rates agreement and for the equalization of the general schedule of freight rates in the west is again on.

The Vancouver Board of Trade is back on the movement, and it has decided that definite action must be taken at once. A committee has been appointed to consider the matter and a draft resolution is to be forwarded to the Dominion Railway Company at Ottawa.

"The Vancouver Board of Trade, acting on behalf of its members," the letter says, "hereby makes application to your board to be granted a hearing to enable them to give evidence before your board bearing on the intense discrimination which now exists to the detriment of the manufacturer and the producer in this province, and the commercial interests in general of the province, through the suspended Crow's Nest Pass agreement of June, 1897, which was reinstated on July sixth."

Want To Establish An African State

Negroes Holding International Convention In New York During August

New York—Announcement of an international convention of negroes to be held in this city throughout August, under the auspices of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, has made headlines all over the country, appearing in a New York newspaper. Panades, demonstrations and the formation of a "negro political union to protect the rights of the race throughout the world," were announced as the principal items of the programme.

Petitions on behalf of 4,000,000 negroes in the United States will be presented to President Coolidge asking "his consideration for their desire" to peacefully build up a country of their own in their motherland, Africa, states the advertisement. Similar petitions on behalf of 2,000,000 West Indian negroes also will be presented to King George and the British Parliament, it is stated.

Retail Merchants' Convention

Montreal—Representatives from each province in the Dominion will attend the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association to be held in Ottawa from August 18 to 22. The session will be presided over by G. A. Banfield, of Winnipeg, Dominion President, and all matters affecting the retail trade will be discussed.

The association will call upon the usual six members on a board to watch provincial and federal legislation, among other duties, and to see that the retail merchants get fair treatment in all matters affecting their business.

Secretary Lapointe, of the Quebec division, stated that an effort would be made to have all merchants handle nothing but made-in-Canada goods.

Customs Revenue Increases

Still Twenty Millions Less Than Corresponding Period Last Year

Ottawa—Customs and excise revenues, which have declined since the beginning of the fiscal year, are now showing signs of recovery. In the month which closed today the total was $2,121,164,540, an increase of $2,458,624 over June, but a decrease of $3,929,118 from July of last year.

Customs revenue alone in July was $10,482,132, against $9,582,394 in June. Total customs and excise collections for the four months of the fiscal year ending tonight total $18,333,693, a decrease of approximately twenty millions compared with the corresponding four months of last year.

Police Unable To Rescue Major Imrie

Every Effort Made When Mob Attacked At Teheran Say Dispatches

London—According to the Morning Post, the Persian legation here is in receipt of an official statement from Teheran, declaring that, contrary to reports, the Persian police made a great effort to rescue Major Imrie, the United States Vice Consul, who was killed by a mob in the Persian capital. One policeman was killed in this endeavor and several injured, it was stated. Far from neglecting their duty, by failing to prevent the crowd from breaking into the hospital where Major Imrie had been removed, it is declared that the police actually arrested practically everybody implicated in the hospital attack.

The Government stated that some days prior to the disturbance, much sectarian feeling was manifested among the participants in the religious demonstrations going on in Teheran. The police and soldiers, therefore, had been cautioned to avoid any action which might aggravate the over-excited state of the crowd, and to remain quiet for the second anticipating that grounds would arise for an attack on foreign residents. It was in view of this, the statement adds, that the police withheld firing upon the mob when Major Imrie was attacked.

Australia To Ask Reciprocal Trade

Will Shortly Open Negotiations For Treaty With Canada

Sydney, Australia—Negotiations will shortly proceed with a view to Australia obtaining reciprocal trade with Canada, New Zealand and South Africa, Austin Chapman, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced.

Mr. Chapman referred to a section of the customs regulations dealing with British goods and declared that the anti-dumping act was essential to Australia's protective policy.

Ottawa—Negotiations for a reciprocal trade treaty between Australia and Canada have been on the books for a couple of years. Hon. J. J. Robt, at one time Minister of Trade and Commerce, made a visit to Australia recently. There were further discussions during the Imperial Conference last year, and subsequently Senator Wilson, of Australia, visited Ottawa to confer with the Dominion Government. Canada's original proposal was an exchange of preferences, but Australia could not see her way to full acceptance.

Inter-Provincial Agency For Prairie Wheat Pools

Regina, Sask.—Establishment of an inter-provincial sellout agency to be known as the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Ltd., with headquarters in Winnipeg, was decided upon at the conference here between executive members of the Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta pools. Immediate steps are being taken to secure a dominion charter of incorporation from Ottawa, and a committee was appointed to proceed with the organization of the new company in Winnipeg. Official announcement that the prairie pools had undertaken to incorporate the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited, was made at the close of the conference.

Prize Winners From Royal Ranch

Prince of Wales Captures Prize At Regina Exhibition

Regina—The Prince of Wales figured as a prize winner at the Regina exhibition when his Shorthorn bull, King of the Fairies, emerged grand champion and senior champion of his class. Clarendon Goldsmith and Princeton Corporal, two of His Royal Highness' other animals, were reserves, both classes respectively. Clarendon Goldsmith was adjudged champion Shorthorn bull.

The Manitoba team ran in exhibition by the Prince of Wales also won for its royal owner the title of champion and reserve champion. The championship in Hampshire ewes was another success for the royal ranch Peikisko, Alberta.

BRITISH PROTEST OVER RANGE OF BATTLESHIP GUNS

Washington—Disclosure in London that the British government has made formal representations to the United States and Japan, contending that, in its opinion, any increase in the range of the guns of existing battleships under the flag of any nation signatory to the Washington naval limitation treaty would be a breach of that treaty, gave an entirely new aspect to the discussion of the subject, which has been in progress in the United States for two years or more.

The announcement was met with complete silence on the part of officials at the state department, but at the navy department, Secretary Wilbur, speaking on the basis of press reports and not upon any official representations he may have seen, declared that "it is a good idea to have the question raised in order to have it settled." The announcement in London, it is believed in this connection, has served to give the question a diplomatic status it has not before known.

So far as known the Washington Government has taken no steps toward replying to the British representations. It is believed that the communication referred to in the House of Commons by the secretary for foreign affairs was transmitted several weeks ago. In view of this it is evident that the Washington Government sees no reason for urgency in dealing with the situation.

The announced purpose of the navy department is to re-submit to Congress at the next session its proposal for modernization of the older battleships of the United States Navy. This program included elevation of the gun turrets to give them modern range.

The comparative status of the British and United States battle fleets in the matter of ranges comes down to a question of individual ships. It is said in both navies there is a wide range of difference between vessels.

One group of four or five of the newest United States craft probably outrange substantially all of the British vessels; on the other hand, because of post-war alterations made, a larger group of British ships outrange the balance of the United States battle divisions. The average range is said to be well in favor of the British.

Canada Represented On Council Board

Ottawa—Canada was represented by Mr. Justice Duff of the Supreme Court on the Imperial Privy Council Board which expanded into the constitutional question whether the British Government could constitute the Irish Boundary Commission, so long as the Government of Northern Ireland declined to appoint a representative on the commission. The board was chosen by the Lord Chancellor and was representative of the Dominions and India as well as of Great Britain.

Grindell Matthews, the British expert now visiting this country, are already underway, and the inventor of the ray is playing a prominent part in the tests, through the impairment of one of his eyes from the secret properties of the ray. Dr. Henry H. Beers has undertaken research work to determine the nature of the ray and its effect on bodily tissue in the hope that some material may be found which will absorb or obstruct the rays in the same manner that rubber, lead and platinum give protection against the X-ray and radium rays.

Would Have Tribunal More Representative

All Political Parties Should Have Interest in Railway Says Thornton

Vancouver—Speaking here at a luncheon tendered in his honor by the Canadian Club and the Board of Trade, Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, declared it was a comparatively easy matter to keep politics out of the purchasing and other departments of the railway, but it was most difficult to meet unfair claims for political prestige.

"The time should come," he continued, "when all political parties should feel that they have a direct interest in the railway. The party which succeeds in no political party, and one way to keep the railway from being used in politics is to give proper representation to all political parties, with men of outstanding business ability representing each political group."

Sir Henry told his hearers that serious consequences might result from the establishment of the railway freight rates under the Crow's Nest agreement should this mean a general reduction of freight rates throughout Canada.

"If the restoration of the Crow's Nest agreement means a new and lower scale of freight rates throughout Canada, then I can say that the position of the two great railway systems will be serious," he said.

B.C. Forest Fires

Dangerous Stage Again Reached On Account of Dry Weather

Victoria, B.C.—The forest fire situation in central Columbia has reached a dangerous stage, mainly as a result of the present spell of hot dry weather throughout the province, the weekly fire bulletin of the lands department says.

So far this year, there have been 1,275 fires as compared with 662 at this time last year, and 1,533 in 1922, Vancouver district, with 308 outbreaks, has suffered most to date.

DATE SET FOR EMPIRE PARLEY IS TOO EARLY

Ottawa—There are difficulties in the way of holding the proposed round-table conference of the Empire so early as October, it is pointed out here. So far as Canada is concerned, special representatives may be sent, although to go to London, Premier King would probably have to abandon a proposed speaking tour in the west.

In the case of the more distant Dominions, the difficulties would be greater. Apart from the question of distance, New Zealand seems to be on the eve of a general election, which would make it practically impossible for Premier Massey to leave on short notice.

In Australia, difficulties have arisen in the lower house between the Nationalists and the Country Party, who constitute the Coalition Government, of which Premier Bruce is the head. This might make it difficult for Premier Bruce to leave on short notice.

On the other hand, New Zealand, which has agreed to hold a general election in November, will be held in accordance with the terms of its constitution.

Of these, about 4,000, it is stated, will be found within the province.

Canada Importing British Shoes

Toronto—Imports of British boots and shoes, which were the theme of a large delegation of shoe manufacturers last session, are still increasing. ## INCREASE IN VALUE OF ALL FARM PRODUCTS

Washington—The agricultural situation in the United States promises farmers some increased economic leverage this year, the Department of Agriculture declared today in announcing that the index of purchasing power of farm products is slowly rising. At the beginning of July the index purchasing power of farm products was 75, as compared with the year 1913, representing 100. That is 10 per cent higher than at any time in the last four years. In its monthly review the department takes issue with those who have estimated a $1,000,000,000 increase in the value of wheat crop over last year's crop.

"It is estimated that United States wheat growers will get from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 more for their wheat this year, than last, assuming that they will sell something over $100,000,000 bushels," said the department. "This is considerably less than the $1,000,000,000 increase estimated in some quarters—but bespeaks an increased ability to pay debts and a general improvement in financial conditions in the wheat country."

"On the other hand, the corn situation is not so meager goods. Stands are extremely spotted, many fields being full of weeds, and much of the crop is so far behind that it will need something approaching a frostless fall to mature. The main significance of the corn situation lies in its effect on live-stock production, which will be coming this year. Expensive corn fall will presumably prolong the liquidation of breeding stock now in progress. Unless history is a falsehood, hogs, hens and pigs and grade cattle will be good property before this time in 1925."

Rains Benefit Crops

Improved Prospects Over Wide Area In Alberta and Saskatchewan

Calgary—Crops on summerfall in practically every part of the province have benefited immensely by the recent rains, according to Alberta's Meteorologist.

Stabilized acreage and spring plowing will not be greatly affected except in the south, where many of them will produce a fair yield. A new aspect has been brought to the whole crop situation, however, by the welcome moisture, and estimates of the Alberta yield are now placed at seventy to eighty million bushels, instead of forty to fifty million. In the south the rain arrived at a most opportune period, and yields will be doubled in many instances, through better fruition of high standing grain.

The Goose Lake area, from Drumheller to Hamlet and east of that town, has recovered from almost total loss by imminent improvement to summerfall crops. The rain was late when stubbed in or spring plowing crops were concerned.

On the main line east somewhat, the same conditions prevail, although yields will be better. In the north, rains of this week supplemented moisture that fell previously when the south was drying up, and excellent yields will result.

B.C. Can Supply Alberta Harvesters

Majority of Workers Will Be Secured in Coast Province

Edmonton—No harvesters are to be brought in from the Old Country to help gather the 1924 crop in Alberta. The supply of workers will be secured nearer home, the majority coming probably from British Columbia.

Walter Smith, Labor Commissioner for the province, reports on his return from the barkest employment conference at Whinlipp, that an estimate of 67,000 men will be required in the three provinces for harvesting operations. This has been agreed upon, and that Alberta's quota of 10,000 still holds, subject to change about the middle of August, when it will be revised in accordance with crop reports in hand at that time.

Of these, about 4,000, it is stated, will be found within the province.

Canada Importing British Shoes
